Brentwood Camera Club Photography Included as Permanent Art Collection of Cumberland Heights New Family Center

Brentwood, TN January 30, 2008 - Cumberland Heights, a nationally recognized alcohol and drug treatment center, announced that it has included over fifty fine art photographs from the members of the Brentwood Camera Club as a part of its permanent art collection for the newly constructed Frist Family Center facility. The juried selection is comprised of fifty-six fine art prints depicting nature and landscapes.

At the well-attended reception on February 7th, Barbera Larew-Adams, Family Services Director for Cumberland Heights stated, "We are overwhelmed with the quality and beauty of these images. Our intention is to create an environment for our patients that engender peaceful contemplation and acknowledgement of the beauty that surrounds us, and these images are a testament to that. We couldn't be more pleased."

"It has always been part of our Club's mission to share the talents of its members with organizations that serve the community. The Cumberland Heights project is a perfect example of this. We could not be more grateful for this opportunity to participate with such a worthwhile organization," stated Jerry Atnip, president of the Brentwood Camera Club.

The Club will be posting The Cumberland Heights Collection on a special section of its website at www.brentwoodcameraclub.org.
